Methods to control the spatial and temporal modulation of gene function in vivo, as well as the level, duration, specificity, and fidelity of gene expression, are described. The rational design and the applications of a variety of non-viral gene delivery systems, such as cationic lipid polymer and poly-peptide based systems, are exemplified for the control of location of therapeutic genes administered by various routes. Current and potential clinical applications of gene-based medicines are presented for the prevention, correction, or modulation of diseases. Examples of current applications of plasmid-based systems for genetic vaccination, treatment of genetic disorders such as cystic fibrosis, and treatment of acquired diseases such as cancer are also provided. The Spectator, 1911 Parliamentary Debates (Hansard).
