Climate, on the other hand, is more than a weather event. It is not simply just rain for one or two days - climate describes the weather conditions that are expected in an area at a particular time of year over a very long time.

What Causes Climate Change?

Climate change is caused by the release of greenhouse gases into the atmosphere. Various activities are responsible for increasing some of these gases, such as through driving cars, creating electricity and burning fossil fuels. These processes create more greenhouse gases, which make the planet increasingly hot. Plants, soils and the oceans can absorb these dangerous gases but they can't keep up with the amount being produced.
