Visual Mismatch Negativity (vMMN): a Prediction Error Signal in the Visual Modality Gabor Stefanics, István Czigler, 2015-06-04 Current theories of visual change detection emphasize the importance of conscious attention to detect unexpected changes in the visual environment However an increasing body of studies shows that the human brain is capable of detecting even small visual changes especially if such changes violate non-conscious probabilistic expectations based on repeating experiences In other words our brain automatically represents statistical regularities of our visual environment Since the discovery of the auditory mismatch negativity MMN event related potential ERP component the majority of research in the field has focused on auditory deviance detection Such automatic change detection mechanisms operate in the visual modality too as indicated by the visual mismatch negativity vMMN brain potential to rare changes VMMN is typically elicited by stimuli with infrequent deviant features embedded in a stream of frequent standard stimuli outside the focus of attention In this research topic we aim to present vMMN as a prediction error signal Predictive coding theories account for phenomena such as mismatch negativity and repetition suppression and place them in a broader context of a general theory of cortical responses A wide range of vMMN studies has been presented in this Research Topic Twelve articles address roughly four general sub-themes including attention language face processing and psychiatric disorders Additionally four articles focused on particular subjects such as the oblique effect object formation and development and time frequency analysis of vMMN Furthermore a review paper presented vMMN in a hierarchical predictive coding framework Each paper in this Research Topic is a valuable contribution to the field of automatic visual change detection and deepens our understanding of the short-term plasticity underlying predictive processes of visual perceptual learning

Photosynthesis, Respiration, and Climate Change Katie M. Becklin, Joy K. Ward, Danielle A. Way, 2021-05-31 Changes in atmospheric carbon dioxide concentrations and global climate conditions have altered photosynthesis and plant respiration across both geologic and contemporary time scales Understanding climate change effects on plant carbon dynamics is critical for predicting plant responses to future growing conditions Furthermore demand for biofuel fibre and food production is rapidly increasing with the ever expanding global human population and our ability to meet these demands is exacerbated by climate change This volume integrates physiological ecological and evolutionary perspectives on photosynthesis and respiration responses to climate change We explore this topic in the context of modeling plant responses to climate including physiological mechanisms that constrain carbon assimilation and the potential for plants to acclimate to rising carbon dioxide concentration warming temperatures and drought Additional chapters contrast climate change responses in natural and agricultural ecosystems where differences in climate sensitivity between different photosynthetic pathways can influence community and ecosystem processes Evolutionary studies over past and current time scales provide further insight into evolutionary changes in photosynthetic traits the emergence of novel plant strategies and the potential for rapid evolutionary responses to future climate conditions Finally we discuss novel approaches to engineering photosynthesis and photorespiration to improve plant productivity for the future The overall goals for this volume are to highlight recent advances in photosynthesis and respiration research and to identify key challenges to understanding and scaling plant physiological responses to climate change The integrated perspectives and broad scope of research make this volume an excellent resource for both students and researchers in many areas of plant science including plant physiology ecology evolution climate change and biotechnology For this volume 37 experts contributed chapters that span modeling empirical and applied research on photosynthesis and respiration responses to climate change Authors represent the following seven countries Australia 6 Canada 9 England 5 Germany 2 Spain 3 and the United States 12

High Performance Computing in Science and Engineering '14 Wolfgang E. Nagel, Dietmar H. Kröner, Michael M. Resch, 2015-02-14 This book presents the state of the art in supercomputer simulation It includes the latest findings from leading researchers using systems from the High Performance Computing Center Stuttgart HLRS The reports cover all fields of computational science and engineering ranging from CFD to computational physics and from chemistry to computer science with a special emphasis on industrially relevant applications Presenting findings of one of Europe's leading systems this volume covers a wide variety of applications that deliver a high level of sustained performance The book covers the main methods in high performance computing Its outstanding results in achieving the best performance for production codes are of particular interest for both scientists and engineers The book comes with a wealth of color illustrations and tables of results

India: Climate Change Impacts, Mitigation and Adaptation in Developing Countries Md. Nazrul Islam, André van Amstel, 2021-05-03 Climate change will lead to many changes in global development and security especially energy water food society job diplomacy culture economy and trade The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC defines climate change as Any change in climate over time whether due to natural variability or as a result of human activity Global climate change has emerged as a key issue in both political and economic arenas It is an increasingly questioned phenomenon and progressive national governments around the world have started taking action to respond to these environmental concerns

This book discusses the issue of food and water security in India under the context of climate change. It provides information to scientists and local government to help them better understand the particularities of the local climate. It offers insight into the changes to natural ecosystems which have affected the local Indian population. Climate change is one of the biggest challenges to Indian society. It can lead to serious impacts on production life and the environment. Higher temperatures and sea level rise can lead to flooding and cause water salinity problems which bring about negative effects on agriculture and high risks to industry and socio economic systems in the future.
