An Archaeology of Nineteenth-Century Consumer Behavior in Melbourne, Australia, and Buenos Aires, Argentina Pamela Ricardi, 2019-07-23 This book compares consumer behavior in two nineteenth century peripheral cities Melbourne Australia and Buenos Aires Argentina It provides an analysis of domestic archaeological assemblages from two inner city working class neighborhood sites that were largely populated by recently arrived immigrants The book also uses primary historical documents to assess the place of these cities within global trade networks and explores the types of goods arriving into each city By comparing the assemblages and archival data it is possible to explore the role of choice ethnicity and class on consumer behavior This approach is significant as it provides an archaeological assessment of consumer behavior which crosses socio political divides comparing a site within a British colony to a site in a former Spanish colony in South America As two geographically politically and ethnically distinct cities it was expected that archaeological and archival data would reveal substantial variation In reality differences although noted were small Broad similarities point to the far reaching impact of colonialism and consumerism and widespread interconnectedness during the nineteenth century This book demonstrates the wealth of information that can be gained from international comparisons that include sites outside the British Empire
