Pine Land Investigating Committee, 1895 Reshaping Higher Education Research Catherine Yuan Gao, Wenqin Shen, 2026-02-11 This brilliant recapitulation and rethinking of higher education studies inviting engagement with scholars everywhere is one of the most important books in the field for many years The conversation about the future of universities learning and research is no longer a Euro American monopoly but is genuinely multipolar and authors from China where higher education and science are flourishing are at the forefront of global thinking Simon Marginson University of Oxford UK This volume attests to the field's vigorous development and the deepening integration of Chinese higher education research within the global scholarly community It also showcases a new generation of higher education scholars in China who combine a strong sense of historical continuity with a broad outward looking vision Rui Yang The University of Hong Kong China This edited book explores how increasing complexity in higher education has led researchers to adopt interdisciplinary approaches integrating insights from sociology psychology gender studies economics geopolitics philosophy geography and data driven methodologies such as big data analysis CV analysis and natural language processing It offers a nuanced analysis of the interplay between higher education and other societal sectors showcasing the field's openness and dynamism The book also examines how advanced technologies push research boundaries enabling a more holistic grasp of knowledge Aimed at academics policymakers and research students it provides rich insights into the multi faceted nature of higher education highlighting the value of a multidisciplinary lens and suggesting directions for future research Essays on Neuroscience and Political Theory F. Vander Valk, 2013-03-01 The past 20 years have seen increasingly bold claims emanating from the field of neuroscience Advances in medical imaging brain modelling and interdisciplinary cognitive science have forced us to reconsider the nature of social cultural and political activities This collection of essays is the first to explore the relationship between neuroscience and political theory with a view to examining what connections can be made and which claims represent a bridge too far The book is divided into three parts Part I places neuroscience as a social and political practice into historical context Part II weaves together the insights from contemporary neuroscience with the wisdom of major figures in the history of political thought Part III considers how neuroscience can inform contemporary debates about a range of issues in political theory This work brings together scholars who are sceptical about the possibility of integrating neuroscience and political theory with proponents of a neuroscience informed approach to thinking about political and social life The result is a timely and wide ranging collection of essays about the role that our brain might play in the life of the body politic It should be essential reading for all those with an interest in the cutting edge of political theory

On the History of Economic Thought A. W. Metacognition, Metahumanities, and Medical Education Alan Bleakley, Quentin Eichbaum, Rachel Ellaway, 2024-09-30 This persuasive volume develops a novel approach to medical education and the medical humanities making a case for the integration of the two to explore the ways in which warm humanism and cold technologies can come together to design humane posthumanist futures in medicine There are many problems with conventional medical education It can be overly technocratic dehumanizing and empathy eroding introducing artefacts that lead to harm and reproduce inequality and injustice Use of the arts humanities and qualitative social sciences have been pursued as an antidote or balance to these problems Arguing against the purely instrumentalist use of medical humanities in this way this book addresses the importance of a genuine and open ended engagement with humanities approaches in medicine It discusses the impact of artificial intelligence and emerging theoretical frameworks and posthumanist perspectives such as object oriented ontology on meaning making in medicine It demonstrates how the key to such a transition is the recovery of the intrinsic art and humanity of metaphor heavy biomedical science in turn framed by models of dynamic complexity rather than static linearity This book is an important contribution to debates around the medical humanities and its role in medical education It is an essential read for scholars with an interest in these areas as well as those working in science and technology studies and the sociology of health and illness
