Edge Entanglements traverses the borderlands of the community mental health sector by plugging in to concepts offered by Gilles Deleuze and Felix Guattari along with work from Mad Studies postcolonial and feminist scholars Barlott and Setchell demonstrate what postqualitative inquiry can do surfacing the transformative potential of freely given relationships between psychiatrised people and allies in the community Thinking with theory the authors map the composition and generative processes of freely given ally relationships Edge Entanglements surfaces how such relationships can unsettle constraints of the mental health sector and produce creative possibilities for psychiatrised people Affectionately creating harmonies between theory and empirical data the authors sketch ally relationships in ways that move Allyship is enacted through micropolitical processes of becoming complicit ongoing movement towards taking on the struggle of another as your own Barlott and Setchell s work offers both conceptual and practical insights into postqualitative experimentation relationship oriented mental health practice and citizen activism that unsettles disciplinary boundaries Ongoing disruptive movements on the margins of the mental health sector such as freely given relationships offer opportunities to be otherwise Edge Entanglements is for people whose lives and practices are precariously interconnected with the mental health sector and are interested in doing things differently This book is likely to be useful for novice and established applied new material and or posthumanist scholars interested in postqualitative theory driven research health practitioners seeking alternative or radical approaches to their work and people interested in citizen advocacy activism and community organising in out of the mental health sector
