The Cambridge Handbook of Consumer Privacy Evan Selinger, Jules Polonetsky, Omer Tene, 2018-04-02 Businesses are rushing to collect personal data to fuel surging demand Data enthusiasts claim personal information that is obtained from the commercial internet including mobile platforms social networks cloud computing and connected devices will unlock path breaking innovation including advanced data security By contrast regulators and activists contend that corporate data practices too often disempower consumers by creating privacy harms and related problems As the Internet of Things matures and facial recognition predictive analytics big data and wearable tracking grow in power scale and scope a controversial ecosystem will exacerbate the acrimony over commercial data capture and analysis The only productive way forward is to get a grip on the key problems right now and change the conversation That is exactly what Jules Polonetsky Omer Tene and Evan Selinger do They bring together diverse views from leading academics business leaders and policymakers to discuss the opportunities and challenges of the new data economy

Making it Personal Tanya Kant, 2020 Targeted advertisements tailored information feeds and recommended content are now common and somewhat inescapable components of our everyday lives With the help of searches browsing history purchases likes and other digital interactions technological experiences are now routinely personalized Companies with access to this information often downplay the fact that users personal data serves as a key form of monetization and their privacy policies tend to use the terms personalization and customization to legitimize the practice of tracking and algorithmically anticipating users daily movements In Making it Personal Tanya Kant sheds light on the dilemmas of algorithmic personalization exploring such key contemporary questions as What do users really know about the algorithms that guide their online experiences and social media presence And if personalization practices seek to act on our behalf then how can users constitute retain or relinquish their autonomy and sense of self At the heart of the book are new interviews and focus groups with web users who through a myriad of resistant tactical resigned or trusting engagements encounter algorithmic personalization as part of their lived experience on the web Tanya Kant proposes that for those who encounter it algorithmic personalization creates epistemic uncertainties that can emerge as trust or anxiety produces an ongoing struggle for autonomy between user and system and even has the power to intervene in identity constitution In doing so algorithmic personalization does not just generate filter bubbles for individuals worldviews but also creates new implications for knowledge production the deployment of cultural capital as an algorithmic tactic and above all formations of identity itself
