1. Sample answer: Radiation is the transfer of energy as an electromagnetic wave.
- 2.c
3. Light is an electromagnetic wave. Electromagnetic waves consist of changing electric and magnetic fields.
4. Electromagnetic waves can be produced by a vibrating, electrically charged particle. When the particle vibrates, the electric field around it vibrates, too. The vibration of the electric field creates a vibrating magnetic field. The vibrations of the two fields together produce an EM wave.
5. $\text{time} = 778,000,000 \text{ km} \div 300,000 \text{ km/s} = 2593 \text{ s}$ (about 43 min)
6. It is important that EM waves can travel through empty space because EM waves from the sun must travel through empty space to provide energy to Earth.
7. The amount of energy produced by the sun is much greater than the amount of energy from the sun that reaches Earth.
8. Trees use photosynthesis to store energy from the sun. This energy is stored in the wood of the tree. When you burn the wood, the stored energy that originally came from the sun is released.

Section review 2

- 2.d
3. The different kinds of EM waves differ by their wavelengths and frequencies.
4. Radio waves can transmit information by varying the waves' amplitude (called amplitude modulation) or by varying the waves' frequency (called frequency modulation).
5. UV light is useful because it can kill bacteria and help the human body produce vitamin D. But overexposure to UV light can cause sunburn and skin cancer. X rays and gamma rays are used in medicine to check for broken bones and to treat cancer. But X rays and gamma rays can also kill healthy, living cells.
6. Sample answer: Two common uses for microwaves are cooking in a microwave oven and checking the speeds of cars using radar.
7. White light is visible light of all wavelengths combined. Sources of white light include the sun, incandescent light bulbs, and fluorescent light bulbs.
8. The entire range of colors of visible light is the visible spectrum.
9. Sample answer: Visible light helped me see so I didn't walk into things, radio waves transmitted television signals so I could watch TV, and microwaves warmed my food.
10. Infrared light has the longest wavelength, visible light has the next longest, and ultraviolet light has the shortest wavelength.
- 11.a, Wave a has the longest wavelength. b. Wave b represents the microwave, because microwaves have shorter wavelengths than radio waves.
