alleles that - every allele and gene for a population

Lesson Summary

Questions About Evolutionary History

By 1859, most evolutionary scientists agreed on several points. They are summarized by the phrase "descent with modification." It means that organisms are related to each other and have changed over time. Evolutionary change has been demonstrated with fossils, molecular genetics, and comparative anatomy. The theory of evolution is supported by many lines of evidence, including the fossil record, comparative anatomy, and molecular genetics. It is a central concept in biology and has led to many important discoveries in the field of genetics.

- All organisms share a common ancestor.
- New species are formed over time.
- Evolutionary change has been demonstrated with fossils, molecular genetics, and comparative anatomy.
