Children's literature emerged as dizzying numbers of new species flooded into Britain with scientific expeditions from giraffes and hippopotami to kangaroos, wombats, platypuses or sloths. As the book argues, late Georgian

Victorian and Edwardian children's writers took part in the urge for mass education and presented the world and its curious creatures to children often borrowing from their museum culture and its objects to map out that world. This original exploration illuminates how children's literature dealt with the new ordering of the world offering a unique viewpoint on the construction of science in the long nineteenth century.
