Lectures on Mean Curvature Flows Xi-Ping Zhu,2002 Mean curvature flow is a term that is used to describe the evolution of a hypersurface whose normal velocity is given by the mean curvature In the simplest case of a convex closed curve on the plane the properties of the mean curvature flow are described by Gage Hamilton s theorem This theorem states that under the mean curvature flow the curve collapses to a point and if the flow is diluted so that the enclosed area equals pi the curve tends to the unit circle In thisbook the author gives a comprehensive account of fundamental results on singularities and the asymptotic behavior of mean curvature flows in higher dimensions Among other topics he considers in detail Huisken s theorem a generalization of Gage Hamilton s theorem to higher dimension evolutionof non convex curves and hypersurfaces and the classification of singularities of the mean curvature flow Because of the importance of the mean curvature flow and its numerous applications in differential geometry and partial differential equations as well as in engineering chemistry and biology this book can be useful to graduate students and researchers working in these areas The book would also make a nice supplementary text for an advanced course in differential geometry Prerequisites include basic differential geometry partial differential equations and related applications
